Declare Against Prohibition. Declare Against Prohibition.

The Texas Federation of Labor in against prohibition. It went on record by adopting a strong resolution Wednesday morning, condemning the injection of the prohibition question into the present state political campaign. A fight was expected on this resolution when it was read, but no speeches wen made for or against it, and the resolution carried with only a scattered dissenting wors. This resolution stated that powerful interests had injected the prohibition question into the present empalse for the purpose of blinding the voters to the real issues important in labor side the people in general, and that this was being done to desire the means of livelihood of desire; the means of livelihood of thesesuhds of union men and was unercrowding the labor market by adding to the list of unemployed. The movement, the resolution said, was an effert to cripple the cause of union labor and it called on the federation and the voters of Texas to help labor resent any further encroachment upon the right of American citizens to follow their calling and sam a living. It called on the members to support only such candidates who are against any tolorance by the prohibition incurace. The legislative committee was also instructed to assist the opponents of any prohibition measure when called upon by any crafts.

Many Resolutions Adopted.

A resolution urging the Texas Fed-musicians was favorably reported and adopted.

The Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance was endorsed and wive the support of the federation by a resolution which was adopted. An elevation inspector to be created by a law was recommended in a renolution which was adopted.

The hisber courts were condemned in a resolution which was adopted, which said that the hisber courts were condemned in a resolution adopted, which said that the hisber courts were trying to discreait the efforts to obtain favorable labor legislation. The legislators who uphold the efforts of the unions to get better laws were endorsed and the judges condemned for picking technicalities in proposed law.

Favor Free Labor Azencies.

Free labor employment agencies were recommended to the legislative committee to be incorporated in a bill, in a resolution which was passed.

The creation of a federal department of locomotion machinery was urged in a resolution, with the recommendation that it be called to the attention of the senators and congressmen, urging them to do everything to have such a law passed.

Sanitary baking laws, a 54 hour law for bakers employes and sanitary inspection of rakeshops was recommended in a resolution which was approved.

Meeting pare Changed.

The Texas Federation of Labor will meet hereafter the third Monday in April Instead of the second Monday in June. The change in the date of the annual convention was made at the Wednesday morning session of the convention, seing in the shape of a

"What will Ulster do?"

Mr. Redmond, the leader of the Nationalists, his pleaded with the men of Ulster to take council for peuce.

Sir Edward Carson, the sleader of Ulster Infonists, has said that Ulster never would submit to home rule.

New Fy to Lords.

Under the parliament set when the house of commons has passed its bill for the third time it goes to the house of lords which has one month in which to take action. If the lords pass the bill it, of course, becomes law; if they reject it, or if finey take no action within one month, the commons then will present the bill to the king for the royal assent.

There have been extreme Tories who have held Jamily to the hope that the king would refuse to sign the bill. This is unthinkable. No English monarch since Anne has exercised the royal veto, and since the king assented to the parliament set he would stuitly himself not to carry it into effect the first time he was called upon. To do so would be to precipitate a revolution that could have but one end—the dethronsement of the king.

What, then, will Ulster do?
